This course includes three e-learning modules, providing employees a compact introduction to MARC and the topic of gender partnership. Participants of all genders will explore key concepts around men’s role in gender equity and workplace inclusion, building their awareness of the crucial role men play, how men benefit, and the key barriers and enablers to active engagement. They will also reflect on what actions can be taken by individuals and organizations to foster advocacy and advance equity and inclusion. While this course can benefit employees at any level, we recommend targeting new hires, entry-level employees, and first-time managers, especially men managers and those with men as direct reports.
